- By signing this form, you (the author(s) or other copyright owner) agree to grant to us The British Informatics Society Limited (“BISL”) the exclusive right both to reproduce and/or distribute your article (including the abstract) ourselves throughout the world in printed, electronic or any other medium, and in turn to authorise others (including reproduction Rights Organizations such as the Copyright Licensing Agency and the Copyright Clearance Center) to do the same. You agree that we may procure that The British Computer Society (“BCS”) publishes your article in the eWiC series hosted on the BCS website, and that we or BCS may distribute it within the eWiC series, on its own, or with other related material and/or in any way make your article publicly available (either free of charge or for financial consideration).
- You promise that the article is your original work, has not previously been published, and is not currently under consideration for publication elsewhere. If it contains material which is someone else’s copyright, you promise that you have obtained the unrestricted permission of the copyright owner (please attach evidence of this) and that the material is clearly identified and acknowledged within the text. You also promise that the article does not, to the best of your knowledge, contain anything which is libellous, illegal, or infringes anyone’s copyright or other rights. You will indemnify BISL and BCS against all losses including any legal costs and any compensation costs and disbursements paid by BISL and/or BCS in respect of any breach of this warranty, or of any claim alleging that the article constitutes a breach of this warranty.
- You assert your moral right to be identified as the author(s), and we promise that we will respect your rights as the author(s). That is, we will make sure that your name(s) is/are always clearly associated with the article and, while you do allow us to make necessary editorial changes, we will not make any substantial alterations to your article without consulting you. We will undertake to publish as soon as we reasonably can. We will do everything we reasonably can to maximise the visibility of eWiC, and of your article within it.
- Copyright remains yours, and we will acknowledge this in the copyright line which appears on your article. However, you authorise us to act on your behalf to defend your copyright if anyone should infringe it, and to retain half of any damages awarded, after deducting our costs. You also retain the right to use your own article (provided you acknowledge the published original in standard bibliographic citation form) in the following ways, as long as you do not sell it or give it away in ways which would conflict directly with our commercial business interests. You are free to use your article for the internal educational or other purposes of your own institution or company; to post it on your own or your institution's website; or in whole or in part, as the basis for your own further publications or spoken presentations. In addition, you may post a copy of your article to a free public institutional or subject repository. Such copy must include the following notice: © [name of author, year]. The original version of this articles is published in the eWiC series at [specify relevant URL].

- Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this licence:
  - (a) This licence shall take effect as a non-exclusive licence in respect of any parts of the article as were written by an author(s) in the course of employment by the British Government and copyright of such parts of the article shall be reserved to the Crown.
  - (b) This licence shall take effect only to the extent permitted by the laws of the United States of America if and to the extent that the article or any part of the article was written by an author(s) in the course of employment by the United States Government.

We and BCS will keep the information you have provided for record purposes; you permit your name and address to be reproduced in eWiC and on indexing and abstracting and bibliographic services. Your details will not be used for any other purpose.
